WRRNNNNNNNNNNNNNNNN

NNRRNNNNNNNNRRNNNN

I'M SORRY...IT'S JUST THAT...

...WELL...

...WHEN YOU COME FACE TO FACE WITH A MEMORY LIKE THAT,
AND, WELL, IT CAN REALLY STARE YOU DOWN, AND...

~:~sigh~:~ ANYWAY...

THOSE NIGHTMARES, THE PAVILION OF WHITE TILE, ALL THAT EASY-TO-GRASP SYMBOLISM POINTING TO A YOUNG GIRL IN TERROR. I HAD THOSE A WHILE.
AND SNATCHING A PURSE OUT OF A PARKED CAR! GOOD LORD! WITH THE OWNER
RIGHT THERE!!

YES MA'AM, I WAS IN SAD SHAPE.

I FIGURE ALL I NEEDED WAS A CLUB FOOT AND A
DEBILITATING BRAIN DISEASE AND I'D HAVE MADE A PERFECT DICKENS CHARACTER!

OH, WELL. AT LEAST I GOT LUCKY IN MY CHOICE OF PURSES TO SNATCH.
BUT THAT WAS ONE MORE UGLY LUMP STUCK IN MY CRAW. (YES, I MAILED
THE PURSE BACK TO THE LADY, FROM NEW ORLEANS, ABOUT THREE WEEKS LATER.)

SEE, IT DIDN'T HIT ME UNTIL I WAS CHANGING AT THAT FILLING STATION THAT I WAS FLAT-ASS BROKE. I MEAN, WHEN YOU'RE RUNNING AWAY FROM HOME—PARTICULARLY AFTER WITNESSING YOUR FATHER'S SUICIDE—YOU DON'T TAKE TIME
TO WORK UP A BUDGET OR CALL ED McMAHON FOR AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVELERS' CHEQUES.

NO—WHAT HAPPENS INSTEAD IS ALL COMMON SENSE GOES OUT THE WINDOW, AND YOU'RE LEFT WITH TWO THINGS: INSTINCT AND IMPULSE.

INSTINCT TOLD ME I HAD TO HAVE MONEY.
IMPULSE MADE ME STEAL IT. SEE?

THERE WAS NO QUESTION OF GOING HOME.
THE ONLY THING TO DO WAS TO GET AS FAR AWAY AS I
POSSIBLY COULD. AND—AS I WAS SOON TO FIND OUT—THAT WOULD MEAN NEW ORLEANS....

IT WOULD BE MY HOME FOR THE NEXT THREE YEARS.

MUCH WAS TO HAPPEN IN MY LIFE IN THAT CITY. HAPPY TIMES,
NOT-SO-HAPPY TIMES, FRIENDSHIP, LOVE, LOSS. IT BECAME A VITAL
PERIOD IN MY LIFE, ALTHOUGH THERE WAS ONE THING THAT PERIOD
DID NOT DO...

IT DIDN'T HEAL ME. I THOUGHT IT DID.
IT KIND OF FOOLED ME, YOU SEE.

AH, WELL...WHY LISTEN TO ME YAKKITY-YAK-YAK?

JUST SEE IT FOR YOURSELF!

AGAIN...just a few reminders...

1) My April Antarctic Blast was an joke! Please...please do not take anything I stated in that particular editorial seriously.

2) If you like Antarctic Press comics, make sure you check out Diamond's Previews for the latest in comic book releases. If any of the new stuff suits your fancy, be sure you tell your retailer! That's one of the few ways retailers can get feedback about new projects.

Here are some upcoming projects from Antarctic Press that you should check out!

American Woman, by Brian Denham, is an exciting new series that's bringing the fun back into comics. It is our best-selling book so far this year, and has received critical acclaim from previews sent to various professionals. Brian is pouring his heart into this project, and it really shows!

StarGods by Scott Clark and Dean Zachery of Conquest Studios. This will be the comic that changes how we view comics in the future. Just as Alex Ross brought in a new comic art style, StarGods will feature state-of-the-art artwork in combination with beautiful 3-D rendering. You have to see to believe! Also check out the cool action figure based on the series.

no punches with this new series set to be released in late 1998/early 1999. Taking his years of comic and video experience he sets to embark on a series that will make all his die-hard fans drool and set a new standard for comic/video related comics.

Warrior Nun by Ben Dunn. Ben is all set to return to the series he created, with his first issue due out in late 1998. Have you noticed the number of books that have emulated Warrior Nun recently? Well, you ain't seen nothing yet as Ben begins a new chapter in the Warrior Nun universe that will knock your socks off.

The Robotech universe is shaping up nicely with our main color series continuing to shine, and a great spread of black-and-white mini-series coming out too. Some books to look out for are Robotech: Covert Ops, Robotech: The Sentinels: Rubicon, and Robotech: Wings of Gibraltar.

Our toy line continues to expand and improve. Along with fan favorites Usagi Yojimbo and Flaming Carrot, many new figures like American Woman and Ra from StarGods are getting a lot of attention. Razor and Alley Oop are coming up next and they look great!

So lots of new things are headed your way from Antarctic. Check them out in our books or in industry catalogs and let your retailer know you can't wait for them to hit his shelves!
